

Microwave Brownies

(Recipe on the back)

Brownies are a dense bar cookie that cooks well in the microwave. We prefer them made with the chocolate squares because they are a little chewier, but they can also be made with unsweetened cocoa powder (Substitute 1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder for the chocolate squares. Add the cocoa, with the sugar, to the butter, which has been melted on HIGH (100%) power for 1 to 2 minutes. Proceed with the basic recipe.).

If you make them in the nontraditional round cake dish you won't need to shield any corners. The wedges are then often nice topped with ice cream and hot fudge sauce for dessert. Frost, if desired.
